Are you ready? Are you prepared? These are important questions each of us should be asking ourselves. Black outs, tsunamis, and earthquakes are just some of the situations that all San Diegans should be prepared to face...and CERT San Diego is here to help. In our 6-week class, receive valuable training from professional first responders in topics like disaster medical treatment and triage, light search and rescue techniques, and small fire suppression, to name a few. Each class is four hours long and includes classroom instruction as well as hands-on training. Thursday class times are 6pm–10pm and Saturday class times are 9am–1pm. Both Thursday and Saturday classes attend the final drill on 11/3/12.

This is a no-cost training and is open to all citizens who live or work for a company in the City of San Diego.

*If you do not live in the City, please contact your community fire department for information on the program in your area.
